

A legend about Latvian flag

A long time ago, when our land were conquered by enemies, we have won in one of the battles and retrieved a white flag. But in the same fight one of commanders was injured. Soldiers took this white flag and put it on the ground and laid down the injured commander. Commander lost a lot of blood and died. When he was picked up from the flag, it was colored red. White has left only that place where the dead body of the commander was. With commanders death sorrowed and angry soldiers hung the blood stained flag on the spike, and went into the fight-they dispeled the enemy.

